

Integration

Why Integration

ECM systems become most useful when they are seamlessly integrated into other applications so that it's functionality can be controlled from the 3rd party application.

Web Integration

Integrate FileDirector browser retrieval functionality into your intranet, or even your corporate web site. This is an easy task with FileDirector's web retrieval engine which is fully customizable, and can be set to require, or not require security credentials from users, although the documents available can be tightly controlled.

Remote Commands

With remote commands you are able to control the WinClient and FileDirector web with a set of command instructions. This allows you to perform index searches, fulltext look-ups, document display, checking-out documents and even scanning.

The command set can be activated from a command line or integrated into your own application by calling our handler program.

Built-in SDK

If you develop, or have your own applications developed for you, whether Windows or web based, then the FileDirector SDK will allow you to fully integrate with FileDirector. Create new documents, update them, retrieve them, manage security and more.

„Unlimited possibilities!“
